

Teaching the Write Way

We are pleased to offer an interactive professional learning session that focuses on teaching writing to students who access the curriculum through the ASOLs.

When: February 27, 2019

Where: Stafford Campus of University of Mary Washington

Target Audience: School professionals from Region 3 who support students on the ASOL curriculum.

Attend if you teach students who:

- access the curriculum through the ASOLs;
- struggle to write with a pencil/pen;
- do not yet compose sentences/paragraphs;
- OR are not motivated to write.

We will focus on:

- understanding the developmental stages of writing;
- exploring available assistive technology, including Alternative Pencils;
- motivating students to enjoy writing;
- AND creating ASOL-referenced writing activities that engage ALL learners.

Spring is a great time to try out the new lessons and strategies that we will share!

Writing can help children with disabilities learn to read, communicate, and problem solve (Erickson & Koppenhaver, 2007).

Registration Information:

Time: 9:00 am to 4:00 pm (registration and breakfast at 8:30 am)

Location: Stafford Campus of University of Mary Washington
University Hall
121 University Blvd.
Fredericksburg, VA 22406

Cost: $30 per person, includes breakfast, lunch and workshop materials.

Register at this link: https://events.membersolutions.com/event_register.asp?content_id=77818